Reduce Cross Contamination

Public dispenser with contact points can be the home of viruses and bacteria. A simple touch can have serious consequences for your health and those around you. The best way to avoid transmitting a virus is to avoid cross contamination. Cross contamination is when the bacteria and germ transfer from one surface to another. The Dreumex Omnicare touch-free dispenser system is designed to eliminate contact points resulting in a reduced risk of cross contamination.

One Solution Fits All

We get it, no business is the same. When designing our products we listen to the needs and wants from different market segments. Busy office with high traffic areas? No problem. Do you work on the go and need that extra protection? We got you covered. Our hand disinfection solutions not only ensures the best protection on the market, but also provides an easy to use attractive lightweight packaging.

Skin Friendly

The World Health Organization recommends including an alcohol based hand sanitizer in your hand hygiene routine. However, using alcohol based solutions can dry and damage the skin on your hands relatively quick. At Dreumex we prioritize hygiene but are also aware what this effect can have on your hands. That's why we made sure to include nurturing ingredients to our formula. This way you can keep being protected while also keeping your hands healthy.

Three Products, One Mission

At Dreumex we take hygiene serious. With our easy to use and attractive Dreumex Hand Disinfection solutions, you can let us worry about the protection and safety of your company while you focus on what you do best. Running your business.

The Dreumex Omnicare Bag-on-Valve utilizes a modern spray dispensing system. This superior technology improves products in a wide range of industries. Compared to the traditional aerosol sprays our Bag-On-Valve solution guarantees greater consumer, distributor and environmental benefits.
